Where's the Canada Summer Jobs $$$?

Anti-Choice Groups Reported ZERO Federal Funding to Canada Revenue Agency

The Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) provides online access to the annual Charity Information Return (T3010). This return provides the CRA, donors, and other interested parties with needed information on the financial standing of registered charities. The T3010 has specific lines in the revenue section where charities are required to identify their government funding. Charities earning over $100K annually must complete a detailed Schedule 6 on the level of government funding received.

The charities listed below received Canada Summer Jobs funding but reported this federal revenue as zero on their T3010 Schedule 6 from 2010 through to 2016.

In January 2018, the Abortion Rights Coalition of Canada reported 44 agencies to the CRA for discrepancies on their T3010 form.

What happened with the Canada Summer Jobs program?

In April 2017, the Abortion Rights Coalition of Canada reported that many anti-choice groups had been getting federal government funding to hire summer students under the Canada Summer Jobs (CSJ) program – about $1.7 million since 2010! (Here's the list with amounts and years: <https://goo.gl/4C1ZsC>)

Prime Minister Justin Trudeau and Employment Minister Patty Hajdu quickly announced that Liberal ridings would no longer award CSJ funding to anti-choice groups, and that the government would look at ways to permanently change the program to prevent any MP from allocating public funds to anti-choice groups.

In December, an attestation requirement was announced, requiring eligible CSJ applicants to tick a box attesting that their core mandate activity and the summer job activity itself would respect Charter rights and associated human rights, including reproductive and LGBT rights. "Respect" means to not work to actively undermine those rights – it does not mean support for them.
